- <sup>1</sup> talked about before. The fact that, you
- <sup>2</sup> know, we had a weekly -- for example, a
- <sup>3</sup> weekly CE -- CE is continuing
- <sup>4</sup> education -- subteam meeting, there would
- <sup>5</sup> be an agenda for that.
- I had a co-chair at times, <sup>7</sup> and so we would put together an agenda,
- 8 send it out to Campbell. They would
- distribute it to the other members of the
- <sup>10</sup> team. They would take notes on the --
- <sup>11</sup> during the call.
- We were -- frequently
- <sup>13</sup> prepared, I'll call them PowerPoint
- presentations so that the folks on the
- phone, since we were all, you know,
- <sup>16</sup> meeting remotely, could follow along on
- documents. Those -- those PowerPoint
- slides were retained by Campbell. They
- <sup>19</sup> retained copies.
- 20 Once a year, we would have a
- <sup>21</sup> call for grant proposals for education
- <sup>22</sup> related to the REMS, and the documents
- <sup>23</sup> that were utilized during that grant
- <sup>24</sup> application process, the call for
- Page 31
- <sup>1</sup> proposals, the scoring cards that were
- <sup>2</sup> used to make sure that the applications
- <sup>3</sup> met the CE criteria and the FDA REMS
- <sup>4</sup> criteria. The results of the grant
- <sup>5</sup> review, you know, which applications were
- <sup>6</sup> of the best quality. Campbell would put
- <sup>7</sup> those on to an Excel spreadsheet so that,
- <sup>8</sup> you know, we could look at them across
- <sup>9</sup> the total of what was -- what was
- <sup>10</sup> received.
- 11 They would -- when we would
- 12 get invited, for example, to speak at the
- <sup>13</sup> FDA public meeting on REMS, we would put
- 14 together a slide deck that had to be
- approved, because it was for external
- <sup>16</sup> use, by the members of the RPC. 17
- Campbell would share those <sup>18</sup> slides during the Wednesday weekly
- 19 conference call that all the companies
- <sup>20</sup> participated in and -- so that they would
- 21 be aware of what was being said and could
- <sup>22</sup> approve what was being said outside of
- <sup>23</sup> the organization.

24

And that's the -- I mean,

- - <sup>1</sup> that's the type of documents that -- and
  - <sup>2</sup> that's the focus of those documents. Q. Did you ever communicate
  - <sup>4</sup> with individuals outside of Campbell,
  - during this time, through your e-mail?
    - A. Yes. The continuing - education subteam members. So, for
  - example, at times Marcia Stanton or Bob
  - Kristofko were my co-chairs, and we
  - would, you know, put together an agenda
  - or suggest items for the agenda. Or if
  - there was an issue that was brought to
  - our attention from the CE community that
  - we had to put on the larger agenda for
  - RPC, we would, you know, communicate that
  - amongst ourselves so that it could get on
  - 17 to the agenda.

18

20

- Q. What is Marcia's last name?
- Stanton, S-T-A-N-T-O-N. A.
  - Q. And where is Ms. Stanton?
- What company did she work with?
  - A. I believe she's retired now
- <sup>23</sup> herself. She was last at Pernix
- <sup>24</sup> Pharmaceuticals.

- Page 33
- Q. While you were working at
- Campbell, or while you were consulting
- <sup>3</sup> for Campbell, where did Ms. Stanton work?
  - A. She was one of the first
- <sup>5</sup> folks involved with the REMS, so going
- back to, let's say, 2009. And I don't
- <sup>7</sup> know the dates here, but she did work for
- <sup>8</sup> Pfizer at one point in time. She worked
- for Purdue. She worked for Pernix. And
- there was one other small company,
- <sup>11</sup> Horizon Pharmaceuticals, which was not an opioid company.
  - Q. Did you ever communicate
- <sup>14</sup> with individuals at ACCME?
- A. Yes. That was a large part
- <sup>16</sup> of -- I mentioned to you the Conjoint
- Committee on Continuing Education, that
- working group. I perhaps should have
- explained what that was.
- That is an organization of
- approximately 25 to 26 national
- <sup>22</sup> accrediting bodies, including the ACCME,
- <sup>23</sup> and including the national professional
- <sup>24</sup> organizations that accredit education for context before the drug was approved. That is not permissible in the field of scientific exchange.

And all I was trying to point out was in the NIPC, which is an FDA and ACCME approved medium of scientific exchange, it is permissible to discuss clinical studies that have been done on agents that haven't yet been approved by the FDA, provided you are not making any claims and provided it's done so -- in a balanced and unbiased method.

And so while there is a discussion of oxymorphone, there is also a discussion of all of the other modalities that are being used in opioid therapy that are -you know, were pending before the FDA at that time.

It was not like a fee or a payment.  It was in the form of a payment to the American Pain Foundation, but it was for execution of educational activities. So the you know, the net of that, that went to the American Pain Foundation, was not was not those numbers.  Q. And just doing some rough math here, approximately $500,000 in 2010, and the first payment in 2011 is approximately $800,000.  So you would agree over $1 million in pain education, just based on those two payments?  A. That's what this that's what this chart shows.

But my own focus was just <sup>4</sup> saying, hey, I know someone who is in the <sup>5</sup> area, and may be able to help identify <sup>6</sup> what some of the needs are here, and that <sup>7</sup> he was involved in education in that <sup>8</sup> area.

Q. Okay. And do you recall <sup>10</sup> what Mr. O'Neill -- what ideas he had <sup>11</sup> with respect to what could be done, as <sup>12</sup> far as educational efforts in the state

<sup>13</sup> of Tennessee, in reaction to that issue? 14 A. He had talked about some

<sup>15</sup> local organizations that were active in <sup>16</sup> doing -- you know, active in efforts to <sup>17</sup> try to address the addiction, abuse,

<sup>18</sup> overdose problem. 19

I don't remember anything <sup>20</sup> specific about TTP. Again, that was just <sup>21</sup> beginning to occur. And so his -- his

<sup>22</sup> follow-up action item was going to be to

<sup>23</sup> speak with those individuals who were

Q. In connection with the TTP <sup>5</sup> issue, do you recall reaching out to any <sup>6</sup> other organizations to assist Endo with <sup>7</sup> educational efforts in the state of 8 Tennessee?

A. No, I didn't know anyone <sup>10</sup> else in the state of Tennessee.

Q. Do you recall there being a <sup>12</sup> series of public service announcements, 13 or PSAs, that were aired in the state of <sup>14</sup> Tennessee in movie theatres in connection

16

A. The American Chronic Pain <sup>17</sup> Association, yes, I do.

18 Q. And what do you recall about <sup>19</sup> the involvement of the American Chronic <sup>20</sup> Pain Association, with respect to the TTP

21 issue?

22 A. Yes. Thank you for jogging

<sup>23</sup> my memory on that. 24

Q. It's my job.

A. Penny Cowan, who was the

<sup>2</sup> executive director of the ACPA -- the

<sup>3</sup> reason that didn't come to mind

<sup>4</sup> originally is that was done more broadly

<sup>5</sup> than just Tennessee, and I guess they decided to reutilize it there.

And it was a brief public

<sup>8</sup> service announcement that was designed,

you know, when people were coming into

<sup>10</sup> the theatre with their popcorn and

<sup>11</sup> waiting for the feature, to take that

<sup>12</sup> captive audience moment, especially kids

<sup>13</sup> and teenagers and young adults, to

<sup>14</sup> emphasize some simple, safe messages about don't share your medication.

And it was a very -- I recall it very distinctly. It was a very dramatic PSA. It showed, let's say, three or four family members and one was blacked out, you know, as if they were no

<sup>21</sup> longer alive. And, you know, it was

<sup>22</sup> talking about the fact that you needed to

<sup>23</sup> secure your medications and don't share

Page 453

Q. The PSAs, to your knowledge, <sup>2</sup> had -- did not directly address the issue of intravenous drug abuse --

A. No.

Q. -- with Opana ER, correct?

A. No. It was some basic principles of safe -- you know, how to mitigate risks associated with opioids. Q. And did the PSAs in any way address specifically Opana ER? 11 MR. DAVIS: Objection to 12

21

16 A. I don't believe so. I think it was a generic, you know, public service announcement.

19 Q. And you mentioned that these PSAs were targeted at young people.

Why was that?

A. Well, when I say "targeted at young people," the idea was, you know, <sup>24</sup> who was going to the movies at that time

Page 454 Page 456 <sup>1</sup> were young adults. This was prior to <sup>1</sup> shown more broadly. So that was an <sup>2</sup> educational grant for them. A. Correct. 8 Q. Did Endo perceive that there And the idea was, what could was a particular problem with abuse of we utilize, you know, to be able to opioids and young people in the state of intervene as quickly as possible to help <sup>11</sup> Tennessee? 11 the folks in that area. 12 12 Q. ACPA on that occasion, if anybody, to <sup>3</sup> bring the PSA into Tennessee theatres? A. I was originally the one who <sup>5</sup> had talked to the ACPA about the PSA in general, because it was done through an <sup>7</sup> educational grant. And I cannot recall who on <sup>9</sup> the risk management team -- I probably <sup>10</sup> facilitated the, you know, interaction <sup>11</sup> and spoke to the ACPA about whether, you 12 know, what they thought about it. 13 But in terms of the <sup>14</sup> logistics and, you know, the funding for 15 it and how that was executed, it wasn't <sup>16</sup> me. And I'm guessing it was one of the members of the risk management team who <sup>18</sup> was responsible for that. 19 Q. Had you been involved in any grants going to the ACPA prior to that occurrence of the PSA being shown in

And so they suggested that to us.

Q. And who reached out to the

And they had been developed by the pain action team, which was -again, had been supported originally as an educational grant. And so when we were talking about what types of materials might be helpful to addressing, not just Tennessee but the issue there in the Appalachian area, I said, well, you know, we could perhaps follow-up and see if they would be interested, in the area, in utilizing those -- those opioid, you know, safe storage and don't share kinds of sheets that had already been developed. 19 Q. You said pain action team. 20 Are you talking about Pain 21 Action.com? 22 Yes. A.

And what is that group?

Pain Action.com was a series of ten, I'll call them a tear-pad

When I was in clinical affairs at Endo, it was not something that was, you know, occurring, or at least in the public knowledge and domain, in the extent to which we would have known what the condition was, but it wasn't something that, until recent years, had been had been emphasized and called out. So independent education is education that is designed to and conducted by a third party, typically a CE-accredited provider, to address clearly defined educational needs and knowledge gaps and practice gaps for clinicians in clinical practice.  Q. Did Endo participate in any independent education?  A. Endo provided unrestricted educational grants for independent education.  And, as we were just referring to a short time ago, over the years, the standards for independent education evolved, and Endo always adhered to or exceeded the standards for independent education. <sup>1</sup> standards.

O. Do the ACCME standards -you referred to guidelines in the past.

Are the standards you <sup>5</sup> referred to the same as the ACCME guidelines?

7 A. They are actually much more <sup>8</sup> firm than guidelines. The correct, exact title is the, ACCME Standards for <sup>10</sup> Commercial Support. And it's a, you

11 know, trademarked document that they've

<sup>12</sup> published all over the website that

13 they've cited in all of the literature

14 that served as the basis -- for example, when you're talking about the REMS, which

<sup>16</sup> was sort of a unique collaboration

<sup>17</sup> between the FDA, industry and the ACCME,

<sup>18</sup> the ACCME was the arbiter of assuring

19 that everything that was done, yes, it

<sup>20</sup> was at the behest of the FDA, but it also

22 As Marie Croppolo, who was <sup>23</sup> the ACCME chief executive for years, <sup>24</sup> said, there is no safe harbor for REMS.

<sup>1</sup> well, you know, this is different, you

<sup>2</sup> know, we don't have to abide by those

<sup>3</sup> same -- those same criteria, those same

<sup>4</sup> standards for commercial support. And

<sup>5</sup> that was absolutely not the case.

We had to abide by the FDA <sup>7</sup> requirements and the statutory requirements and, at the same time, abide

100 percent by the standards for commercial support for the ACCME.

So it was charting a course 12 that allowed us to not cross the line for an ACCME perspective and yet accomplish what FDA was expecting us to do.

O. Prior to Endo's involvement <sup>16</sup> with the extended-release long-acting opioid REMS, did it comply with the ACCME guidelines -- the standards? I

19 apologize.

THE WITNESS: No. And the -- again, I'll preface this, since this whole REMS was a little bit of a different -- sort of a

<sup>4</sup> direction to the REMS program companies <sup>5</sup> about the types of independent education

<sup>6</sup> those companies should be supporting

discussions of what the intent was. And 10 it was emphasized that it was to reach a <sup>11</sup> broad audience of especially primary care <sup>12</sup> providers.

13 They knew how, in fact, we <sup>14</sup> had sent the request for proposal, the <sup>15</sup> draft, to them in advance of putting it <sup>16</sup> out there to the CE community to make sure that they knew what we were asking <sup>18</sup> for and to make sure that it was aligned <sup>19</sup> with their expectations.

20 And they received reports 21 from the REMS companies, for example, <sup>22</sup> after each grant cycle saying, these are 23 the grants that have been -- have been

Page 522 Q. You just said "pain management" there, Ms. Kitlinski. Does that mean opioids? A. Opioids are one element of pain management. But what American Pain <sup>6</sup> Foundation, and all of the other national <sup>7</sup> pain organizations, are committed to, <sup>8</sup> unless it was a specific one like the <sup>9</sup> Varicella Zoster Foundation, which was only associated with that particular area 11 of pain, but for the majority, the <sup>12</sup> American Chronic Pain Association, the 13 National Pain Foundation, the ACPA, all <sup>14</sup> of the professional organizations, their <sup>15</sup> goal was much broader. It was for <sup>16</sup> correct and appropriate assessment of <sup>17</sup> patients, assuring that patients were <sup>18</sup> able to describe their needs to their <sup>19</sup> clinicians, assuring that clinicians had <sup>20</sup> access to a broad spectrum of analgesic <sup>21</sup> modalities, whether they be <sup>22</sup> pharmacologic, nonpharmacologic, you <sup>23</sup> know, combination, multimodal therapies,

It's Exhibit-36. And that bears the Bates number CHI000435580. Do you recall discussing this document with plaintiffs' counsel, Ms. Kitlinski? 11 A. Yes. 12 O. And what is this document? A. Again, this is a, quote/unquote, pain action guide, a brochure that was developed by the American Pain Foundation talking about the -- again, pain in general, as we've been discussing all day, that there are two concomitant public health situations. One is chronic pain and the other is the public health situation associated with abuse and misuse of opioid analgesics.

So that's what pain <sup>2</sup> management is when I use that term. And <sup>3</sup> certainly opioids is one element of that. Q. But just one element, right? A. Yes. And certainly not the <sup>6</sup> first element. All of the -- I know that <sup>7</sup> there were some sentences or bullet <sup>8</sup> points that pointed out today about <sup>9</sup> opioids and, perhaps, someone might have <sup>10</sup> mistakenly believed that that was the 11 first alternative that was recommended in <sup>12</sup> all of these educational materials, <sup>13</sup> whether they were independent or <sup>14</sup> otherwise. 15 And, indeed, without <sup>16</sup> exception, they all indicated that opioid <sup>17</sup> should be used when other modalities have <sup>18</sup> failed to provide sufficient pain relief <sup>19</sup> or when there are untoward issues which
